ABOUT PHANDER VALLEY

Phander Valley, nestled in Gilgit-Baltistan's Ghizer District, captivates visitors with its natural allure. Situated northwest of Gilgit City, it offers cozy lodging along the Gilgit-Chital road. Known as "Little Kashmir," its stunning landscapes, lush farms, azure lakes, and meandering river, famed for trout, enchant all who visit. Orchards and verdant fields line the Gilgit River's path, providing a serene atmosphere. The region boasts four sizable lakes, with Phander Lake as the largest. The Gilgit River, splitting into rivulets upon entering the valley, reunites upon departure. Notable accommodations include the Wali Hotel and Shandur Guest House. The best time to visit is June and July, when the weather is ideal. A visit to Shandur Pass, Shandur Lake, and Shandur Polo Ground is a must, just three hours from Phander.
